

1. 11. 45

Mrs Darby,
Queens Drive

Surbiton

Sunny.

Sunday.

Flo. B. Doby 154676
R.A.F. Station

Great Malvern,
W. York.

Yoko

My darling,

Was so pleased to receive your two letters, am glad to hear you and Mother had an enjoyable night at Wimbledon theatre, it makes a nice change for both of you, - but fancy sucking ice-cream cornets on the stalls, that's not done in the best of circles, you'll be eating fish and chips in the Tube next.

So poor old Basil is a much trained man, well don't get ideas of raking me with a rod of iron or I'll sign on in the Air Force for another 4 years or give a brand or something.

I do suppose Daphne hasn't settled on a prospective husband, by the way what happened to the other chap who lived at Blygate, the one much older than her, is he still on the list of possibilities?

How is the wiring progressing? hope he isn't making too much mess

3
I am glad to hear you have managed to collect a few more odds and ends for the kitchen, I wish I was nearer home as they have dumped some large packing cases on the site for firewood, it really a shame to cut them up, they are 6 feet long by 3 feet wide and 2 feet in depth all true wood about an 1" thick just what I want for the top of the coal cellar, its wicked the waste that goes on in the service, any manufacturer would pay two or three pounds for a case.

4/

I haven't sent off my parcel of washing yet as Mother's hasn't arrived and I need a clean vest to change, however expect it will arrive on Monday.

Things are quieter now we have moved some of the books, we have another 250 to get rid of before we close down so this should take us a few days.

Well my darling, must finish now.
Am writing to Mother and Dad by the post.

Remember me to Mother & Dad, Love Mum is better all my love darling, Jack