Thursday.

My dearest Jean,
Many thanks for your letter, which I received on Tuesday and Wednesday, thanks so much for the flint, it's been divided between Ron's and my lighters so it should last until I get home, leave is still on for the 29th, only another ten days, how is your work proceeding? Hope you will be clear 2.

by Monday week.
How sorry to hear about your cold, still if your American boy-friend will keep you standing about waiting for him I suppose you'll go on catching them, but you had better get rid of it before I come home otherwise you won't have a plaster to commemorate the occasion. Seriously though I hope it is getting better and not making you too miserable.
How has just come back from the dentist, he's had an X-ray

3,

and they've discovered part of a tooth embedded in the gum and they've just thrust it out, this keeps him off flying for forty eight hours so I expect we shall have a spare flying for us.

The weather hasn't been too good lately, have had a lot of typhs scrubbed, means hanging about a lot, can't be helped but it's a bit annoying when you're just about to take off.

I haven't received the parcel yet; expect it will be along tomorrow

4/ Mother may not have posted it until Tuesday.

We went to the camp cinema last night, saw Margaret O'Brien in 'Lost Angel', expect you have seen it as its a pretty old film, anyway it was quite enjoyable.

I noted the hints to nearly wedo as per 1863, think I will draw up a list of what I want done and let you have it, will start with tea in the early morning followed by breakfast in bed and pins lit before I come down, that's just the start to get you used to the idea, of course rolling pins do not come in to this.

Now I will wait for the storm to burst in your next letter, don't forget to send the ring back registered post.

Well darling, think I've said enough, remember me to Mother & Dad, take care of yourself darling, all my love

Yours
Jack
