My dearest Jean,

Thanks so much for your letter received this morning, am so glad to hear that you've been busy housekeeping, I'll ignore the next remark about "a woman's work I suppose if she will agree that talking is work well it must be wight, good old Dad has his suffering for my sake, I'm going to get him on the trolley which I come home next time and find out just how much he suffered, probably by then it'll be too late for me!

Am pleased to hear that Eastwards are resigned to their loss and have advertised, I don't think you'll have got away from them until you're safely installed at the Naaji. or nearby.

I've just returned from visiting Jack and Leo a lot better tonight; his temperature has gone down and the pain is decreasing, apparently it's a form of dysentery there are one or two more cases on the camp.

Yesterday I went and saw the Adjutant about the leave scheme, he said as I had not heard the accommodation is booked and I shall receive notification about ten days before going, I hope this is correct, we get told so many fairy stories these days, however we've a new adjutant coming and I'll have a go at him. regarding the leave paper I'm waiting until the flight commences returns before starting things moving however I don't expect any difficulty.

I received a letter from Mum and Dad yesterday and a parcel arrived today, please tell them if you see them.

Well dear, there's not a lot to write about at the moment, it seems so long since I saw you, yet it was only last Saturday (exactly 117 hrs 3 minutes) Give my love to Mother and Dad, hope they are both

4

well and Dad's knee is better, how is Mrs Gale? Hope she is a little better

Sheila, darling, will be writing again soon.

all my love
Jack

P.S. Have bought 4 towels, enclosed are my coupons, you can use all these but get Dad to change them first for industrial ones
